

NAB's petition is insane. I happily pay a premium fee for XMRadio in order NOT to have to listen to the endless garbage and mind-numbing commercials that litter the so called "free" AM and FM stations. If the NAB were to have their way, I would never listen to another broadcast station again. There's always the internet, cell phones and GPS information to help me through my day. Who needs evil, greedy broadcasters to dictate what I can listen to in my own car and home?

This sounds like some lame argument from the 1960's.
